The Faculty of Economics and Management invites applications for a University Professorship (m/f/d) of Salary Scale W3 NBesO in “Economics with a focus on Public Finance”

starting April 1st, 2021.

Candidates must hold a PhD, and their qualifications are expected to merit the rank of tenured full professor. Successful candidates will show a strong record of research in leading international journals, excellent teaching evaluations and the ability to raise research funds. Candidates will strongly contribute to one of the School’s research foci. Past research should include taxation and institutional studies. Teaching in German and English at bachelor, master, and PhD levels is required. In teaching, the professorship is part of the Master’s area “Accounting, Taxation and Public Finance”. The applicant should have an appropriate teaching profile.

General responsibilities and conditions of appointment apply, in accordance with the Lower Saxony Higher Education Act (Niedersächsisches Hochschulgesetz - NHG).

Part-time employment can be arranged upon request.

As an equal opportunities employer, Leibniz University Hannover has set itself the strategic aim of significantly increasing the proportion of women. Female scientists are therefore particularly encouraged to apply. Applications from abroad are especially welcome. Preference will be given to equally qualified candidates with disabilities.

In its mission statement, Leibniz University Hannover attaches great importance to the international orientation of teaching and research. At the same time, it places significant value on the intensive guidance and support of its students and on the university’s close ties to the region and to Lower Saxony. Its professors are thus expected to be based in the Hannover Region.

Successful candidates who have reached the age of fifty by the time of appointment and who do not already have civil servant status will generally be given an employment contract.
